

„INNOVATIVE TEACHING FOR SUSTAINABLE FOOD SYSTEMS: How to prepare a university course with modern educational methods?“

Czech University of Life Sciences, Prague
Room no. D551, Building MCEVII
23rd June 2021

All workshop participants will receive materials in English as developed by the international consortium of the TEFSI project. The workshop will include space for discussion and sharing of good practice among participants. The workshop will be held in Czech language.

Registration is open until Friday 18th June 2021 at: <https://forms.gle/JzSCYUyHoF2TpnMi9> (in Czech)

09:00 – 09:30	Registration with tea, coffee & light refreshments
09:30 – 09:45	Welcome by the hosts and organisers – CULS and CUNI Doc. Ing. Jaroslav Havlík, Ph.D., CULS & Dana Kapitulčinová, Ph.D., CUNI & externally CULS
09:45 – 10:30	Innovative university teaching and project TEFSI – introduction to the workshop and key project information: aims & activities, trainings and outputs Dana Kapitulčinová, Ph.D. & Ing. Jiří Dlouhý, CUNI
10:30 – 11:00	Sharing of experience with innovative teaching: useful materials, tools & concepts – more detailed information on TEFSI project outputs (O1, O2 & O3, O4, O5) and moderated participant discussion on own practice Dana Kapitulčinová, Ph.D. & Ing. Jiří Dlouhý, CUNI
11:00 – 11:30	Coffee break
11:30 – 12:30	Teaching tools & concepts in practice: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • ABC model for course design – example of how to use it in new course development: Master course „Sustainability in the Food Chain“ at CULS • Fishbowl discussion method – hands-on session and how to use it in your teaching • Feedback and peer-feedback – a moderated discussion Dana Kapitulčinová, Ph.D., UK & Prof. Carola Strassner, Münster University of Applied Sciences, Germany (e-lecture video)
12:30 – 13:00	Concluding words & goodbye Doc. Ing. Jaroslav Havlík, Ph.D., CULS & Dana Kapitulčinová, Ph.D., CUNI
13:00 – 14:00	Lunch – we invite all participants for a vegetarian menu*

* Please confirm your participation at lunch in the registration form. Thank you!

